WHAT'S NEW

There is no need for southern or western growers to shy away from red callas any longer. This intense red cultivar retains its color in the heat and as the flowers age. The red pigment also extends down into the stems for an added punch of color. Large blossoms are produced above heavily maculated foliage that remains attractive all season.

WHAT'S NEW

All new breeding has resulted in this large-flowered cultivar that bears deep orange flowers with golden highlights near the base of the spathe for a distinctive two-toned appeal. The blossoms retain their rich coloring in climates nationwide. Lightly maculated foliage with an attractive pot habit keeps the interest going all season.

WHAT'S NEW

Creating interest with their depth, these dark purple callas are lightest around the edges, deepening to near-black in the center of the spathe. The large, lush blossoms appear above the heavily maculated foliage whose form is greatly improved over others on the market.

Calla

Be My™ Sunshine Calla

WHAT'S NEW

We're confident this is the very best yellow calla on the market today. Its breeding lines come from one of the most popular yellow callas grown for the cut flower market. Sizeable blossoms are a bold, clear yellow that won't fade, even in warm climates, and its maculated foliage has an attractive pot habit.
